

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

INTRODUCTION

So far as the writer can learn, this Directory gives a more or less full account of every organized charity in San Francisco, as well as those outside of the city where residents may be relieved (*), with the exception of seventy-five of the churches (†), concerning whose charity work it was impossible to obtain any data. No pains were spared in getting at the facts. Guess work was not indulged in, but a patient siege was laid, if necessary, to every institution and society, until it yielded the desired statistics. (‡) There has been, of course, no going behind the returns, since the writer held no official position which would give him the liberty of investigating; the figures, therefore, are only as reliable as the annual reports, with which they were compared whenever possible.

STATISTICS

There are at present 204 charitable agencies that relieve the needy of San Francisco. During the year 1893 (††) they expended, exclusive of receipts from beneficiaries, $1,380,509.86. It should be borne in mind that this does not give an adequate idea of the benevolent work of the city, for, as before stated, no account of the local benevolence of seventy-five (||) of the churches was obtained, and it does not include, of course, an estimate of the amount given privately, a form of charity unusually common in San Francisco. The above figures are based entirely on the statistics in the body of this book, excepting that in several instances the facts were obtained only on condition that they appear, if at all, in the total amount. () Following are the summaries by departments.

(*) The five State Insane Asylums, the two State Reform Schools, the State Home for Feeble Minded, the two State Schools for the Blind, the National Soldiers' Home, the State Veterans' Home, Fred Finch Orphanage, Bishop Armitage Church Orphanage, and St. Vincent Orphan Asylum. (†) Some of the 75 probably give nothing in relief. (‡) Mutual benefit societies are omitted, as being a form of insurance rather than charity.

(††) The statistics are made up from the report of the last year attainable. Reference to the body of the work will show that only a part of the charitable agencies ended their year Dec. 31, 1893. Some had not existed a full year, and figures were given as late as possible. (||) These probably dispense $30,000 more, for they include some of the largest churches of the city. () The manager of one institution declined to have a financial statement published in any other way, "because," he said, "it would not make a good showing."

SANITATION AND MEDICAL RELIEF

Institutions.	No.	Private.	City.	State.	Nation.	Total.

Total.....	30	$96,345 77	$173,054 64	$35,165 59	$31,631 29	$336,197 29

In the four departments managed by city officials, the totals are made up from the itemized report of the auditor rather than from the annual reports of the departments. This has been done because there are often discrepancies between the two accounts, owing to the fact that the city is unable to pay all bills for the current year. Of course, all bills audited must be paid sometime. In the case of hospitals, I have deducted from the total expenditures the amount received from pay-patients, and in the case of dispensaries, the amount received for medicines. No account is taken of the value of medical advice, which is always free, but only of medicines given away, rent of office, etc. While I have given a full account of the five insane asylums of the State, I have included in this summary only the amount expended in the care of those that were received from San Francisco.

OUT-DOOR RELIEF

Institutions.	No.	Persons.	Private.	City.	Total.
*Public	2	10,000		$7,395 80	$7,395 80

Total.....	70	67,200	$308,562 85	$7,395 80	$315,958 65

Reference to the body of the book will show that in most cases the total expenditures of the societies have been given. The sum total, then, represents not only the money actually given to the needy, but also the cost of giving it. The seventy-five churches that did not report probably expended over $30,000 more.

*There is properly no official out-door relief in San Francisco. Two sums go to make up the total given—the Robinson Bequest Fund, disbursed by the mayor ($2,395.80), and the $5,000 annually received from the Police Fund (See Consolidation Act, Supplement XLVI, April 1, 1870, Sec. 1), which is distributed by the San Francisco Benevolent Society.

INSTITUTIONAL RELIEF

Institutions.	Private.	City.	State.	Nation.	Total.
Old Peoples' Homes.....	$ 35,898 01	$46,351 21	$ 74,696 99	$124,089 20	$281,030 41

Total	$195,059.59	$50,601 21	$195,626 17	$124,089 20	$565,376 17

In the case of the Old Peoples' Homes and Orphan Asylums, I have deducted the amounts received for board of the inmates, but not the amounts expended for repairs. In all instances this was slight, and doubtless every year will call for as large an outlay. For the three asylums outside the city, the cost of maintaining the children received from San Francisco only, is included. The amount against co-operative homes is small, because it represents only what was actually not paid for by the beneficiaries.

PREVENTATIVE AND RESCUE WORK

Institutions.	No.	Inmates.	Private.

The sum earned by the girls while residing at the Homes has been deducted from the total amount expended. In one instance (†) the home was almost entirely supported in this way.

Against schools is placed only the sum which it cost the State to maintain and educate pupils from San Francisco. No figures are given for the St. Francis Technical School, since that institution is self-supporting. Museums are also omitted from this summary, for the reason that it was impossible to estimate the extra expense to the societies maintaining them above what it costs to have them open for the inspection of their own members.

This seems like an enormous charity bill for a city so young as San Francisco, and whose entire population numbers scarcely 300,000. The city of Baltimore, with 100,000 more inhabitants, expended in 1892 about $50,000 less.† While not much value is to be placed upon this comparison, since the figures for Baltimore are an estimate based upon a partial canvass, and it is not likely that the cost of caring for dependents in institutions outside of the city are included, and while some allowance is to be made for the greater demands upon all charitable institutions in the latter part of 1893, still, the cost of relieving the poor in San Francisco is undoubtedly more in proportion than in any other young and prosperous city.

I want everyone who consults this little book to appreciate with me the sympathy and helpfulness of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Weaver, Superintendent and matron of the City and County Almshouse; the many kindnesses of Mr. J. G. Chown of the Christian Union Mission; the hearty co-operation of Father Montgomery (now Bishop Montgomery) without whose aid I would not have been able to include the Catholic Charities; and especially the generosity of Mr. Timothy Hopkins, through whose assistance this work is given to the public.

At present the number of boys is 96, and the number of teachers present each evening 3, instructing 15 boys. The different Clubs remain associated with the same working members for four months; at the end of that time they pass on to meet on another evening with other members, to learn another kind of work. Instruction is given in manual training, drawing, singing, games, hammock netting, whittling, basket weaving (fancy), chair caning, rope knot brading, rag carpet sewing, wood carving, leather sewing and cobbling. Progressive lessons in the use of knife, square and gauge are given from a course adopted in the Springfield public schools. Every alternate piece of work done at the rooms is given to the boys as their own property—the other piece becoming the property of the Club, to be used or sold. The boys have been started in making a series of collections, such as flags of all nations, samples of all kinds of knots, drawings of rigs of ships, colored drawings, all of which are arranged on cardboard and exhibited in the rooms. The drawing class is making a collection of drawings of common plants in the vicinity. A stamp-saving society has been organized to encourage the boys in saving pennies, and especially to encourage saving for some definite end. Cards are issued to members, and stamps of different denominations are sold, which are pasted on the cards as certificates of deposit. These are cashed when a week's notice has been duly given. Whenever a parent or guardian, or other person entrusted with the care and support of a child, shall desire the same to be admitted into the California Home for the Care and Training of Feeble Minded Children, he may appear before and petition the Court, or a judge thereof, in the county in which he resides, for an order of admission of said child into said Home. If the Court or Judge, on inquiry into the condition and status of said child, find that the same is imbecile or feeble minded, between the ages of five and twenty-one years, incapable of receiving instruction in the common schools, and has been a resident of the State for one year next preceding the date of the petition, he shall make an order that said child be received into, and maintained and educated in said Home, and, upon the presentation of such order, the Superintendent shall receive such child into said Home; provided, the Home be not already full, or the fund available to said Home be not exhausted. If the Judge or Court, on investigation, find that the parent or person charged with the support of such minor, be able, in whole or in part, to pay the expenses of such child at the Home, he is to make an order requiring such parent or other person to pay to said Home, at stated periods, such sums as in the opinion of the Court or Judge may seem proper, while the child is in the Home. This order may be enforced by such order or orders as the Court may deem necessary, and may be varied, altered, or revoked in the discretion of the Court or Judge thereof. The Board may return to its parent or guardian any child who has been an inmate of said Home for the period of two months. If the capacity of the Home be sufficient, the Trustees may admit persons above and under the required ages, and also non-residents of the character described—but must charge a fair rate of compensation to such persons. Inmates for life may be admitted by the Trustees under such terms of donations, bequests, or grants as they may deem best and just under the circumstances.

The object aimed at in the institution shall be such care, training and education of those received as to render them more comfortable, happy and better fitted to care for and support themselves. To this end, the Trustees shall furnish them such agricultural and mechanical education as they may be capable of receiving, and as the facilities offered by the State will allow, including farm work, shops, and the employment of trade teachers, who may at any time be discharged for cause.

PRESTON SCHOOL OF INDUSTRY. Ione, Amadore Co. (Act establishing same approved March 11, 1889, Stats. 89, p. 100. Amended Feb. 27, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 39.)

Managed by three Trustees appointed by the Governor to act without compensation. The inmates of the school shall be subject to military discipline, and clothed in military uniform, but under no circumstances are they to be clothed in convict stripes. The school is for such juvenile offenders between the ages of eight and twenty-one years, whose sentence is suspended as provided in Sec. 1388 of the Penal Code (Supra). Honorable dismissal may be granted by the Board, and conditional dismissal may be granted where a boy is bound by articles of indenture or returned to his parents or person who gives a bond for the proper care of the boy. Such conditional dismissal is made subject to the boy's good behavior. If he violates his parole he may be returned. If a boy is found incorrigible he may be returned to the Court for sentence. Instruction is to be given the inmates corresponding as far as possible with the grammar school course of instruction and also industrial training. "The ultimate purpose of all such instruction, discipline and industries shall be to qualify the inmates for honorable and profitable employment after their release from the institution, rather than to make said institution self-sustaining."
